

2011-12 CMA STUDENT AMBASSADOR – Sean Kim – University of Toronto –
St. George – Rotman Commerce – Finance & Economics Specialist

Hello! My name is Sean Kim and I am currently enrolled in the Finance & Economics specialist program of Rotman Commerce at University of Toronto. I always had the aspiration for the CMA program from interacting with friends and family members who hold the designation. Coming from a finance field, CMA to me represents not only managerial accounting, but also leadership and analytical skills required in a competitive business society of today. Becoming the CMA ambassador is another step towards obtaining my designation and I am glad to be part of the CMA organization.

Aside from academics, I have great interest in both music and automotive industry. I play several instruments such as drums and guitar, and enjoy playing music with my band. I am also looking forward to creating a car owner's group in the GTA for the auto aficionados like myself in the near future. I hope to incorporate the business concepts and experiences from my past roles to gather sponsorship from automotive industries to really expand the network between car lovers.

I am very glad to be the CMA student ambassador for University of Toronto St. George Campus for the upcoming 2011-2012 year and look forward to being the connection between the CMA Ontario and the students within Rotman Commerce. One of my main goals as the ambassador is to raise awareness of not only the designation itself, but also the numerous benefits of joining the CMA program as a student. I believe there are much valuable information and experience to be gained from the student membership and hope to share them amongst fellow students.
