

Managing a Multi-generational Workforce

Has the Great Recession changed the perceptions of multiple generations about the workplace? Has it rearranged their priorities and goals for their professional lives? This presentation addresses the most notable changes in the workplace in the wake of the recession and lessons learned by both employees and hiring managers. It also explores generational behaviours and gaps in the workplace, myths vs. reality, and provides timely advice to help you manage and retain talented employee teams of all generations, both now and in the future.

Sherry Kinsman - Recruiting Manager, Robert Half Finance & Accounting

Sherry Kinsman is a Recruiter Manager for Robert Half Finance and Accounting, specializing in full-time placements. Sherry has spent nearly 20 years in recruiting both internally and externally for companies/clients. Prior to joining Robert Half, Sherry has worked for various insurance organizations in both Toronto and Waterloo, primarily in management and leadership roles. She has also worked in retirement services; corporate finance; individual wealth management; group and life insurance; software development and a chartered accountant firm during her accounting career. Sherry is thoroughly familiar with the staffing skills that are currently in demand and is an expert on the employment trends within the finance and accounting fields. Under Sherry's direction, Robert Half has achieved great success in establishing itself as a leading provider of highly skilled professionals. In addition, Sherry has often shared her perspectives on workplace issues and hiring trends at professional association conferences and events.
