Twelve Monkeys of Life and Work....

In this motivational presentation, we will explore how to tame the twelve common “monkeys” or typical life and work challenges that all have some influence on us from time to time. We will explore the “monkeys” of self-doubt, procrastination, personal productivity, getting and staying organized, attitude, interpersonal communication, stress, difficult people, worry, the future and change...plus much more.

Michael Lewis will help us to get the “monkeys” off our back by sharing his personal and professional experience that has made him effective. Michael is the principal owner of his own development corporation based out of London, Ontario. He engages his audiences by lacing his presentations with humour and enthusiasm. Michael has been widely featured on radio, television and his articles can be found in sixteen different publications.
