True Colors™ Seminar Event with Christine Popkevich

There are big differences in how people you live with and work with make decisions. In this True Colors™ seminar, you will see how your characteristics and the characteristics of people around you change the way each of you process information. How are they different? Hear one of the foremost Canadian experts of the True Colors™ program open up a whole new spectrum of understanding about yourself and the people around you. Get to know the people you work with and live with and how they respond in real situations every day.

This hands-on, interactive Education Awareness Seminar will help participants understand an introduction to the True Colors™ concept in relationship to personality and temperament styles. Practical and useful activities apply the True Colors™ concepts to your personal and professional life which becomes the springboard for developing improved communication skills, greater understanding of self and others and more meaningful relationships.

Key benefits include:

- Introduction to True Colors™
- Understanding and appreciation of personality differences in self and others
- Recognition of the values, joys, strengths stresses and frustrations of each personality
- Building and promoting of self-esteem, respect and confidence
- Deepening of relationships and creation of a more harmonious environment
- Enhancement of communication skills
- Strengthening of teams

About the Speaker

Christine Popkevich is a seasoned Trainer/Facilitator with a degree in Business Administration, certification in Adult Education as well as in a variety of programs related to communication, conflict resolution, giving and receiving constructive feedback and other 'soft-skill' topics. Partnering with True Colors™, Christine has the distinction of being the first Canadian certified as a Master Trainer Level V.

Christine's background in both the corporate and volunteer sectors has provided her with vast experience in dealing with people whose knowledge and perspectives vary. She is an engaging speaker whose passionate and animated delivery style captures her audience. Her natural ease as a presenter has garnered extremely positive responses from others who have attended her sessions. All True Colors™ seminars are memorable learning experiences that are fun, easy to use and guaranteed to involve participants; the information will stay with you afterwards and provide long-lasting beneficial results!
